Remember: When turning off the electricity after a disaster, turn off the individual circuits first and then the main circuit. When you want to restore power, turn on the Main circuit first and then the individual circuits.